10:35 AM	11:05 AM	ASSESSMENT SESSION 1.1: Focus On Social Development Healthy families are a guarantee to healthy societies. Lack of job opportunities, among several social issues, takes several men to despair and alcoholism, resulting into the abuse of power against women. Many children eventually end up in the arms of drug addiction. What are the hot social issues in Mexico and their main causes?	Moderator: Javier Solorzano  Speakers: Shirin Ebadi, Nobel Peace Laureate Leymah Gbowee, Nobel Peace Laureate Tawakkol Karman, Nobel Peace Laureate Kailash Satyarthi, Nobel Peace Laureate Jody Williams, Nobel Peace Laureate Mauricio Vila Dosal, Governor of the State of Yucatan
11:05 AM	11:10 AM	Moderator invites the speakers of session 1.2
11:10 AM	11:40 AM	ASSESSMENT SESSION 1.2: Focus On Economic Development Inequality, poverty and job shortfall are few of the challenges that Mexico, like several neighboring countries, is facing. Eventually, the infrastructure and healthcare system are lagging behind, while immigration and violence rates escalate. Music, Sports and Technology experts will share their inputs on the integration of those sectors into the development arena.	Moderator: Javier Solorzano  Speakers: Juan Manuel Santos, Nobel Peace Laureate David Trimble, Nobel Peace Laureate Lech Walesa, Nobel Peace Laureate Mauricio Vila Dosal, Governor of the State of Yucatan Joel Bouzou, President and Founder, Peace and Sport
11:40 AM	12:20 PM	DISCERNMENT SESSION 1.3: We will outline four priorities for the empowerment of policy-making towards a healthier economy where women feel equal, men have their integrity and competence, and youth grow in an environment of freedom, productivity and sustainability.	All speakers in 1.1 and 1.2.

		Moderator Introduces the panel and invites panelists on stage	Moderator: Francisco Zea
9:10 AM	9:40 AM	ASSESSMENT SESSION 6.1 Over the centuries, human societies have made a great progress in reaching agreement on the manner at which international relations should be conducted and the welfare of humanity should be promoted. These agreements are codified in numerous treaties and conventions which are essential for the maintenance of peace and the future wellbeing of the planet. They include conventions on peaceful international relations, nuclear disarmament, global economic and social cooperation, and protection of the environment. Now, many of these conventions are being threatened by powerful states that seek to promote their interests through unilateral action rather than international law.	Speakers: F W de Klerk Shirin Ebadi David Trimble José Manuel Barroso, 11th President, European Commission (2004-2014), Recipient of 2012 Nobel Peace Prize Marcelo Kohen, President, Institute of International Law Johnathan Granoff, President of the Global Security Institute
